3. What the Site Does

UKpassports was described as a site offering fake British passports: counterfeit travel documents that imitate passports issued by the United Kingdom.

This report does not detail how the site works, because it was not accessed and the information has not been independently verified.

Nature of the activity

- Forgery of a travel document, a high-security official document.
- Possible use in identity fraud and in irregular border crossing.
- Collection of personal data, such as a photograph, identification details and payment.

5. Why It Is Red Level

The red level is applied when there is at least one indicator of extreme danger. In this case:

- Forgery of a travel document: making, selling, possessing or using a false passport is a serious offence. In the United Kingdom, for example, the Identity Documents Act 2010 and the Forgery and Counterfeiting Act 1981 apply; in Brazil, articles 297 and 304 of the Penal Code.
- International consequences: using the document at a border can lead to arrest, deportation and a ban on future entry.
- Handing data to criminals: photograph, name and payment end up with people who can use them for other scams.
- Scams: advance payment with no delivery.
- Traps and surveillance: travel documents are a priority for border and investigative authorities.

If in doubt between yellow and red, red is adopted.
