Dark Web Map

WebAtlas · 30 sites in 6 categories, with symbol, name and risk level

Illustrated map · British English
2 November 2026

1. Overview

The map shows the WebAtlas Dark Web: the dark web sits in the centre, surrounded by the repository's six categories, each with the symbol of its sites. The coloured bar beneath each symbol indicates the risk level. On the following pages, every site has a profile card with symbol, name, risk level and description.

Bar beneath the symbol: green = low risk · yellow = moderate risk · red = extreme risk, do not access · grey = unknown risk.

Origin of the symbols

Symbol	Site	Description
	Cebulka	Image supplied: an onion
	PsychonautWiki	Image supplied: an eye
	Breaking Bad	Chemical symbol: the elements Br and Ba
	Imperial Library	Three stacked books: red, blue and green
	CIA	US flag, used because the site's own symbol was not available
	Tenebris	Reddit's robot inside a green onion (simplified version)
	TomAndJerry	A blue T
	Dark Mixer	The black bitcoin B
	MixaBit	A bitcoin coin
	EasyCoin	A snail with the bitcoin B on its shell
	OnionWallet and VirginBitcoin	No symbol (dashed square)
	All other sites	Illustrative monograms, with initials, in the category colour

About the symbols: the onion and the eye were supplied by the repository's maintainer. The others were drawn for this map and are illustrative, not official logos, which are trademarks of their owners. Sites with no symbol defined were given monograms.

About the information: the classifications were supplied by the repository's maintainer and have not been independently verified. Descriptions marked † were inferred from the name and category. No red-level site was accessed, and no .onion address is recorded. Sites of unknown risk, such as Bipharma, should likewise not be accessed without prior assessment. Sites are cited by name only.
